FORMÉ

Launch update for tomorrow

Prepared for Jessica · 12 November 2026 · shopforme.net

WHERE WE STAND

The store is live at shopforme.net and can take paid orders in Nigeria today. This week we added a size advisor, overseas delivery, safer stock handling and new order emails, all now on the live site. To launch tomorrow, a few things are needed from you; the most important is how many of each size you have, so customers can pick their size.

6

New this week, live

Size advisor, order emails, UK / US / Canada delivery, VAT-free exports, stock hold, international cards.

5

Needed from you before launch

Sizes and stock, size chart, VAT check, one test order, email sender check. Page 3.

7

Can wait until after launch

Legal pages, care text, a few product details, search engine setup and more. Page 4.

TONIGHT

Send the stock per size, or decide to launch with sizes in the order notes.

Confirm the correct size chart and the VAT setting.

TOMORROW MORNING

Place one real test order, check the emails arrive, then refund it.

Check Brevo, switch on overseas countries if you're ready.

THEN

Announce the launch.

Orders show in Admin › Orders, with an email alert for each.

WHAT'S NEW ON THE SITE

Built this week, now live

Everything below is on shopforme.net now. Two features stay off until you switch them on in the admin, so nothing changes for customers until you're ready.

LIVE

"Find my size" advisor

On every clothing page, shoppers enter their height and weight, answer two quick questions about their shape and how they like things to fit, and get a recommended size with the reasons. Works on phones; answers stay on their device.

It measures against the size charts on the site, so it's only as accurate as those charts (see page 3).

LIVE

Order emails from orders@

Order confirmations, shipping updates and your new-order alerts now come from orders@shopforme.net. When customers reply, it goes to hello@shopforme.net.

Tip: hit Reply on a new-order alert and you're writing straight to that customer.

READY, SWITCHED OFF

Delivery to the UK, US and Canada

Overseas customers choose their country at checkout, enter a postcode, see your delivery fee plus a rough total in £, $ or C$, and pay by card in naira. You send the parcel by DHL Express.

Switch on: Admin › Store Settings › International Delivery. Turn on a country and give it a delivery fee.

LIVE

No VAT on overseas orders

Exports are zero-rated for VAT in Nigeria, so UK, US and Canada orders never have VAT added, whatever the VAT setting is for Nigerian orders.

Worth confirming with your accountant (see page 3).

LIVE

Last pieces are held while someone pays

When a customer goes to pay, their items are set aside for 20 minutes. Two people can no longer both buy the last piece. If they don't pay, the items go back on sale by themselves.

DONE

International card payments

Switched on in your Paystack account today, so Visa and Mastercard from abroad are accepted. Paystack's fee on these is about 3.9% + ₦100 per payment.

Optional: switch on American Express in Paystack › Settings › Preferences.

Already in place from launch prep: Paystack payments and receipts, Routely delivery booking inside Nigeria, free delivery in Lagos over ₦200,000, customer accounts and saved cards, order tracking, and the admin for products, orders and banners.

YOUR CHECKLIST FOR TONIGHT

Needed from you before launch

In order of importance. The first item is the only one that changes what customers can do.

1. How many of each size you have MOST IMPORTANT

Your launch books show which sizes each piece comes in (for example the Grind Set in S, M, L, XL and XXL), but not how many you have of each. The site needs that number to show a size picker. Until then, customers can't choose a size; they're told to write it in the order notes at checkout.

What to send: for each product and colour, the count per size. A simple list is fine:

PRODUCT	COLOUR	S	M	L	XL	XXL
Grind Set	All Black	_	_	_	_	_
Grind Set	Slate / Taupe	_	_	_	_	_

If this can't be ready by tomorrow, launching with "write your size in the order notes" works, but you'll have to confirm stock by hand for every order.

2. Which size chart is correct BEFORE LAUNCH

The size posters on the site don't match your launch books. For example, women's XS bust is 81–85 cm on the poster but 80 cm in the book, and the posters run to 7XL while the books stop at 3XL. The size guide and the "Find my size" advisor both use the posters. Tell us which is right and we'll update them.

3. Confirm VAT with your accountant BEFORE LAUNCH

VAT was switched on in Store Settings today (7.5%, included in your prices). Customers pay the same prices; their receipts now show the VAT part. Under the 2026 tax law, small businesses (under about ₦50–100 million a year in sales; sources differ) usually don't need to charge VAT, so please check this is right. If not, switch it off in Admin › Store Settings › VAT.

4. Place one real test order BEFORE LAUNCH

Buy something small with a real card, then refund it in Paystack. Check: the payment shows as paid even if you close the tab before returning to the site; your alert and the customer email both arrive (and not in spam); and booking it with "Dispatch Routely" works.

5. Check Brevo can send from orders@ BEFORE LAUNCH

In Brevo › Senders, Domains & Dedicated IPs › Domains, shopforme.net should show as authenticated. If only single addresses are listed, add orders@shopforme.net as a sender, or order emails won't be delivered.

IF YOU SELL ABROAD FROM DAY ONE

Switching on UK, US and Canada

Set it up once

1. Open a DHL Express business account and get their price for a typical parcel to each country.
2. Admin › Store Settings › International Delivery: switch on each country you want.
3. Enter the delivery fee customers pay, in naira (for example ₦45,000 to the UK).
4. Optionally enter today's exchange rate (naira per £, $ or C$), so shoppers see a rough total in their currency. Update it now and then.
5. Save. The country appears at checkout straight away.

For each overseas order

1. Your new-order alert says it's an overseas order to ship with DHL.
2. Book the parcel with DHL. Import duties are paid by the customer on delivery; checkout tells them this.
3. Admin › Orders: click Mark as shipped and type the DHL tracking number.
4. The customer gets an email with the tracking number and a link to track it on DHL.

Nigerian orders work exactly as before, with "Dispatch Routely".

AFTER LAUNCH

Can wait until after launch

None of these stop customers from buying.
